

Grienscape

There is a sustainable wrapping house on a piece of vacant land, next to the mill, on the NHLStenden knowledge campus. Working on the campus of the future from this living lab.

In recent years, a concept with three zones has emerged around the Wikkelhuis, Socialization Zone, Community Garden and the Relaxation Zone. Every semester we worked on further developing this concept. Collaborations have emerged in the past year, but the place has not yet flourished in terms of structural activities and events.

This living lab aims to connect students, coaches, entrepreneurs, residents and all kinds of other involved stakeholders to inspire each other to ultimately arrive at meaningful placemaking concepts that contribute to the quality of life and quality of life on campus.

Project goal:

Friends of the Grienscape

In recent years, the place has physically come to life, suitable activities have been devised and collaborations have emerged. Using the principles of Placemaking, let the activities (software) come to life with the right parties (orgware) so that the place flourishes. In addition, you contribute to promoting a sense of ownership and community within the 'Friends of the Grienscape.'
